Through Indian eyes : the native experience in books for children

Gabriola Island, BC: New Society, 1992.

Subjects: Childrenô Books and readingô Bibliography. Literatureô Indian authors. Educational equalizationô Bibliography.

Summary: This book is a collection of articles that explore the impact of stereotyping in "children's books about Indians." Poetry, art and stories by Aboriginal Peoples accompany the essays. The heart of this volume, however, is the section that includes reviews of children's and young adult books, most of which were published from the 1950s to the late 1980s. Teachers reading this section will want to revisit their collections, and re-evaluate the books that are on the shelf. The book also contains a section entitled "How to Tell the Difference," which contains valuable information about what to look for when evaluating or choosing books about Aboriginal Peoples.

Criminal justice system.

Summary: This teaching manual, developed and written by Public Legal Education Association of Saskatchewan, is intended to give new insight on the role law plays in our society, particularly its effects on youth. It provides a variety of learning activities and instructional strategies with a substantial amount of teacher background. Each section is organized to provide information on the facts at hand, the law, and issues around case studies, decisions of judges, and approaches and strategies for student analysis. Traditional Aboriginal approaches to justice as well as modern legal systems in Canada are addressed to encourage students to learn and view law from differing perspectives as they apply the concepts and principles in their daily lives.

Doing things the right way : Dene traditional justice in Lac La Martre, N.W.T.

Calgary, AB: University of Calgary Press, 1995.

Subjects: Indians of North America Northwest Territories. Law, Dogrib. Dogrib Indians Social life and customs.

Summary: This book documents the methodology and process of a participatory action research project and the resulting recommendations toward building a new system of Dogrib justice that deals with social control. While the book is research oriented, it provides a critical overview for teachers on the traditional systems of Dogrib justice and the contrasting views of the adopted EuroCanadian system. It is a useful teacher reference in understanding and implementing curriculum objectives that deal with concepts and issues on Aboriginal self-determination and self-government, governance and social justice. The material is written at an advanced reading level; however, portions of the text may be excerpted for student use or teacher reference.
